COOLIDGE SURE WINNER PARTY LEADERS PREDICT

Radicals Backing LaFollette to Help Chas. W. Bryan.

DAVIS THIRD ON LIST

Although the presidential election is but a few weeks off, there is less political agitation in Centre County than in probably any national campaign heretofore. Old time observers, in commenting on this point, inform us that the situation in the county is not only most unusual, but actually without a precedent. In the judgment of quite a few persons this is attributed to the belief among the people that Coolidge and Dawes are assured of election and hence there is little to inspire enthusiasm such as is really necessary to get out a large vote.

The contest for President is not only a three-cornered one, but it is attended with the novel spectacle of many prominent leaders predicting that the result hinges between President Coolidge and United States Senator LaFollette, the latter being the candidate of a socialist-labor-independent movement. The novel feature of the campaign is the rather general belief that John W. Davis, the Democratic nominee for President, will be third man on the ticket. Usually, the two high men are the nominees of the old parties. Democra ic National Chairman Clem Shaver, while at Washington a short time ago, conceded that were a vote taken at that time Davis might be third in the running. He predicted, however, that Davis would grow in strength, but this has not materialized. During the past week LaFollette has repeatedly declared that the election lies between his ticket and the Republican party.

From the earliest stages of the campaign many Democrats have suspected that William Jennings Bryan and his brother, Charles W. Bryan, are secretly in sympathy with a movement engineered by radicals to make Charles W. Bryan the next President. They regard as confirming their suspicions the quite obvious fact that the Bryans and other radicals, particularly the western group, have done really little or nothing to help elect Davis. The hope of the radicals, which is thoroughly approved by the Bryans, is that LaFollette will win sufficient electoral votes to prevent a decision at the polls on November 4th and thereby throw the whole matter into Congress, at Washington. It is assumed in such event that the House will fail to elect a President, due mainly to the fact that the delegations from five or six states are evenly divided as between Republicans and Democrats. The Democratic and LaFollette strength in the Senate would probably be sufficient to elect Charles W. Bryan as Vice President. The House having failed to elect a President, the Vice President would automatically become President, and Charles W. Bryan would thus become the successor to Mr. Coolidge.

It is because of the danger of LaFollette and his radical group, including the Bryans, bringing about such a situation that has had much to do with causing the general business stagnation prevailing throughout the country for some time past. From many directions comes the significant statement that so long as there is any danger of Charles W. Bryan becoming the next President large business interests will continue to hold back. Once it is accepted by business leaders that the decision of the people will be made at the polls, and not through Congress, thereby insuring four years of Coolidge in the White House, there will be a quick return to prosperity, and that by the middle of winter business will be forging ahead at top speed.

In the local contest for Congress, which is one between Congressman W. I. Swoope, of Clearfield, and Edward F. Benson, of Mt. Jewett, it is generally conceded that Mr. Swoope will be re-elected with a comfortable margin. Mr. Swoope will lose a few Republican votes, as usually happens, but on the other hand will receive more or less Democratic support. Mr. Benson is not known throughout this part of the district, and local leaders of his party have allowed him to drift at random. In other words, they apparently are not much interested as to what happens to him.

The local contest for Legislature is one marked by nothing in the line of campaign fireworks but quiet, active canvassing by John L. Holmes, the Republican nominee, and W. H. Noll, his Democratic opponent. As in the Congressional contest, both aspirants will

HALLOWE'EN CARNIVAL

Elks Will Stage Annual Pageant Friday Evening, Oct. 30.

Committees have been appointed for the annual Elks Hallowe'en Carnival and Harvest Queen contest which will culminate on Friday evening, Oct. 30, with the parade of mummers which has proved so popular in years gone by. The general committee follows: B. J. Beezer, William H. Brown, O. A. Kline, Homer Barnes, William Shoop, John Bower, B. D. Tate, Charles Schlow, William T. Kelly, G. H. Yarnell, G. W. Rees, Russel Smith, Harry Garbrick and Ray Noll.

Special committee in charge of the Harvest Queen contest: George H. Knisely, W. D. Zerby, Russel Smith, Edward Keichline and G. W. Rees.

Details of the contest have not been completed, but it is known that it will be conducted on much the same line as before. A list of prizes and possibly the candidates will be published next week. Four possible candidates have been mentioned to enter the contest, but members of the committee have refused to divulge their names, saying that nothing definite will be known for a few days.

COST HUNTER $140

Emerged from Woods With Deer Only to Find Warden Waiting.

A doe which he shot in Decker valley last Thursday evening cost Perry Kreiss, of Pleasant Gap, $140, and the Centre County Hospital got the meat. It happened that Game Protector Thomas Mosier was driving through Decker valley that evening and noticed a Ford touring car parked in a suspicious place along the road. He stopped his car and watched for a short time when he saw Kreiss coming out of the woods with a deer on his back. Kreiss placed the deer in his car and started for home. Mosier said that when he stepped out in front of Kreiss the latter attempted to run him down. Mosier jumped on the running-board and shut the ignition off, and Kreiss, who was accompanied by his wife, gave up without further ado.

At a hearing before 'Squire Woodring on Friday morning Kreiss was fined $125 for hunting without a license and shooting a deer out of season. Costs to the amount of $15 were also imposed.

ARSON SUSPECTED

Arrest Follows Burning of Large Barn Nearby Beech Creek.

The large barn on the farm of G. M. Johnson, of Beech Creek township, was totally destroyed by fire last Friday night about 11 o'clock, together with the seasons crops, farming implements, harness, and other articles. A chicken house adjoining was also destroyed. Mr. Johnson places his loss at $5000, partly covered by insurance.

Grant Reeder, a one-armed man, employed by Mrs. Annie Salmon, is in the Clinton county jail charged with arson, as a result of an investigation of the fire. Mr. Johnson suspects that Reeder was engaged by his employer to burn the barn in revenge. Mrs. Salmon was defeated in a damage case against a neighbor as a result of Mr. Johnson's testimony. The Clinton county detective says that he has obtained a full confessionfrom Reeder.

Local Credit Association.

The Business Men of Centre County are assembling a credit association to be known as the "Centre County Credit Association." Its main objects will be to eliminate all undesirable creditors, commonly known as "Dead Beats," and help the worthy person to secure credit. The organization has already signed a list of members from the merchants of Bellefonte and State College. The Association will be able to give to its members a record whether the person asking credit owns property; how much credit he or she has had in the entire County and in addition how the merchants say he or she pays his bills. The Association will give the merchants a complete line up on any persons and enable them to give credit to the ones who try to pay their bills, and leave out those who do not. The Association will maintain a Collection Department, modern in every way. The members will have the authority to list as bad pay the names of those who refuse to pay their just debts. It will also put out a regular bulletin with the list of new residents of Centre County, marriages, and many other items of general interest and profit to the merchant. Membership and ratings will include the entire County, except Philipsburg. Organization is under the direction of John W. Jacobs, who owns and operates the "Merchants Credit Association" of Williamsport. The office will be in the Odd Fellows Building, and Mr. Jacobs will be glad to call on anybody interested.

FARM PRODUCTS SHOW TO BE HELD AT ARMORY

New Departments Organized in Rural High Schools.

INSTRUCTORS ENGAGED

A wonderful opportunity is being created in rural high schools this year by the local branch of the Bureau of Vocational Education, working in conjunction with the Farm Bureau office. Departments will be conducttd in six high schools which, with the number of students enrolled at each, as follows: State College, 20; Millheim, 31; Centre Hall, 19; Boalsburg, 19; Hublersburg, 17; Aaronsburg, 12.

The course in agricultural education will consist of 4 short courses of 6 weeks each in Farm Forestry, General Horticulture, Farm Management and Mechanics, and Farm Book-keeping and Accounts. The County Supervisor has secured the services of 4 instructors from State College and of a member of the State Forestry department at Harrisburg to conduct the first course.

The students at each school have organized themselves into local agricultural associations and will conduct the first annual agricultural products and poultry show in the Armory at Bellefonte on December 5 and 6. At that time also, all of the Junior Farmers of the county will be tendered a banquet.

In organizing the new vocational training department in the High Schools, the girls have not been forgotten this year and a department of home economics has also been organized. Miss Mary Reynolds, of the extension department of the Pennsylvania State College, has been secured to conduct special classes in sewing, home arts and cooking in 5 communities in Centre County. The communities are, Hublersburg, Boalsburg, Pine Grove Mills, Spring Mills and Rebersburg, and possibly one other. Miss Reynolds will work in direct connection with the Farm Bureau office and will conduct the work in both Centre and Clearfield counties. Teaching centers for courses in home economics will be established at Pleasant Gap, Centre Hall and Millheim, and will be conducted directly from the Home Economics Department of State College. Centre County is unusually lucky in having State College within its borders as the benefits to be delivered from its various extension departments are unlimited.

BURNED IN SHANTY

Remains of Man, and Pets Found in Charred Building.

The charred remains of Dewey Stratton, who lived alone in a shanty at the Rusknak mine in Rush township, were found in the ruins of the building last Thursday morning.

A quart bottle, partly filled with moonshine, was found nearby the body and there was evidence near the shanty that a truck had visited it during the night. Stratton lived alone in the shanty, which was divided into two sections, one of which served as his living quarters, while the other was used to stable a mule. The authorities say that the owner of the truck which visited the shack is known and that a thorough investigation will be conducted as to the possibility of there having been foul play.

Confessed to Robbery.

Walter Bathurst, of Fairview, near Curtin, was taken into custody on Tuesday charged with breaking and entering the cabin of Thomas Shawley, near that place, and stealing several valuable articles, including a revolver. The robbery occurred some time ago, but it was only recently that the suspicions of the authorities were directed to Bathurst, who attempted to sell several of the stolen articles. Chief Dukeman made the investigation, while Sheriff Taylor made the arrest. Bathurst made a full confession under cross-examination. He was sentenced to 2 to 4 years in the penitentiary. He has already served time at Glen Mills and Huntingdon Reformatory, escaping from the former institution and being re-arrested in Philadelphia.

Released on Parole.

Harry Brooks, sentenced to jail recently for a misdemeanor, was released on parole on Monday. He has been in ill health for some time past, which fact prompted Judge Quigley to suspend sentence. Judge Quigley, however, imposed on Brooks a fine of $200, in addition to costs of prosecution, also requiring him to dispose of his restaurant at Clarence.

JURY INCREASED AWARD IN FARM DAMAGE SUIT

Verdict of $5250 for Sinie Hoy Over Keystone Corporation.

B. C. R. R. LOSES CASE

Two interesting civil cases marked the conclusion of the September session of Court. They were taken up following disposition of the Musser and Heaton murder trials.

One was an action for damages brought by the Bellefonte Central Railroad Co. against the American Lime & Stone Co. The plaintiff asked $2250 for damages to a locomotive which got away while shifting cars on the defendant's property. Contributory negligence upon the part of the defendant company's employes was contended by the Bellefonte Central people. The jury returned a verdict in favor of the defendant.

The second case was an appeal by Sinie Hoy from an award by a board of viewers who had appraised damages to his farm by the Keystone Power Corporation at $4500. The case was the first of the kind to be tried in Centre County since the passage of the Act of 1921 giving electric companies the right of eminent domain. The jury returned a verdict for Mr. Hoy of $5250, or $750 more than had been awarded him by the board of viewers.

Some time ago the Keystone Power Corporation, acting under powers given to electric companies, entered upon Mr. Hoy's farm in Benner Township for the purpose of extending its electric power line. A number of poles were erected and power lines were attached. Mr. Hoy first attacked the action of the Keystone Power Corporation by means of an appeal to the Public Service Commission. It was his contention that the Keystone Corporation could have extended its line without causing so much damage to his farm; in other words, that the route selected was unnecessary. The Public Service Commission, after taking testimony, decided in favor of the Keystone corporation. Subsequently a board of viewers appraised the damage done to Mr. Hoy's farm, which is the procedure provided for in the Act of 1921. The award of $4,500 was unsatisfactory to him and he filed an appeal to the Centre County courts.

Upward of twenty-five witnesses, principally farmers, were on the stand during the trial of the case. About two-thirds of this number had been called by Mr. Hoy. All figured more or less as experts who gave their opinion as to farm values in Benner Township, and also the extent of damage done to the Hoy farm by the construction of the power line. Mr. Hoy stated that before the power line was built he valued the farm of 139 acres at $20,000 and that since the power line was constructed his estimate of the worth of the farm was $12,000, or a loss of $8,000. The testimony of numerous other witnesses was as varied as it was interesting. Some of the estimated values, both as to the farm as a whole and also the damage, were in striking contrast. Whereas one witness estimated the damage at $8,000, another placed it at not more than $1,000, or $2,000 at the most. C. L. Goodling, of the experimental farms at State College, valued the farm as a whole at $100 per acre for the 139 acres, and estimated the damage done by the Keystone corporation at $8 per acre, or $1,112 all told. Taking the estimates as to damage given by all of Mr. Hoy's witnesses, and striking an average, or aggregated estimate, the amount was $6,150. The jury apparently deemed this somewhat too high and returned a verdict allowing Mr. Hoy $5,250.

Cases on the criminal list not heretofore reported, were disposed of as follows:

Com. vs Perry K. Detwiler; selling intoxicating liquor. Continued.

Com. vs John Batcheler; aggravated assault and battery and threats to kill. Indictment quashed.

Com, vs Edison D. Priest; statutory offense. Usual sentence.

Com. vs Joseph Grassmyer; violation of liquor laws. Bill ignored.

Com. vs George Long; violation of liquor laws. Sentence suspended.

Com. vs Theodore Taylor; violation of liquor laws. It was contended that the defendant had sold liquor through Geo. Long to a State policeman, and Long had conveyed to the Granger picnic a quantity of liquor which belonged to Taylor. The latter declared the liquor was not his and he had nothing to do

COUNCIL NOTES

Spring Padlocked; Traffic Beacon Lights Ordered.

At the regular semi-mouthly meeting of Borough Council on Monday evening J. M. Cunningham was chosen president pro tem on account of the absence of President John S. Walker.

Perry Moran was present and applied for the position of traffic officer recently vacated by George Glenn. Referred to the Fire and Police committee.

William Rowe and Jacob Marks represented a committee from the Logan Hose Company, petitioning Council to take some action on repairs to the fire house, to which nothing has been done in 17 years. Flooring is needed in several places as well as paper, paint and plaster. There is some money in the organization's treasury and they will repair several of the rooms at their own expense. Harry Flack, of the Undine Fire Company, and also a member of the Fire and Police committee, stated in this connection that the Undine fire house is badly in need of a new roof and other repairs. A motion was adopted that the Fire and Police committee advertise for bids on the necessary repairs.

Robert Morris was present, representing the Crown Fuel Saver Co., and requested authority to install one of that company's patent devices on the furnaces in both of the fire houses at an approximate cost of $36, each, with the understanding that if the device did not live up to its guarantee of effecting a saving of at least 20% of the coal used, it would be removed without further obligation. Referred to Fire and Police committee for investigation and report at the next meeting.

A Mr. Gephart, representing the American Gas Accumulator Co., of New York, presented for Council's consideration pictures and diagrams of an acetylene beacon light or traffic signal. These lights are set upon a concrete base weighing approximately 1000 pounds and stand 7 feet high. There are different panels in each light, and a light within, which flashes about 60 times per minute. One panel has simply the word "stop" on it and will require traffic coming to the corner on which the signal is located to come to a dead stop before proceeding onto the crossing. Five of these beacons were ordered at a cost of $240 each. They are guaranteed to burn continuously for a period of 6 months without recharging. The signals will be placed at each of the following five corners: Bishop and Allegheny; Bishop and Spring; Water and High; Linn, Allegheny and High and Spring.

A petition was presented, signed by 23 residents of Penn Street, asking that a street light be placed there about midway between Howard and Lamb. Referred to the Street committee and borough manager with power to act.

A special committee was directed to draw up an ordinance giving Council power to conduct repairs to sidewalks and curbing at the property owner's expense.

A letter was read from the State Department of Health, at Harrisburg, practically ordering Council to close the big spring and to chlorinate the water. The former had already been done, a padlock having been placed on the gate. The new fountain will probably be erected outside of the fence.

The book-writing machine was reported to have been received and is satisfactory in every way.

A bill for $41.50 was received from the State Highway Department, that amount being 10% of the cost of rebuilding the guard rail along that portion of the State highway intersecting at the new portion of North Water street. A motion was passed to pay the bill.

The Finance committee reported that the treasury was depleted and requested permission to borrow $5000 to pay due notes and bills. Permission granted.

An ordinance was passed stating that all back taxes will be computed with interest from the time due to date paid. This, it is thought, will have a wholesome effect on a number of delinquent tax-payers.

Complications have arisen in relation to the paving of Spring street, between Bishop and High, and a motion was adopted to postpone the second reading of the ordinance authorizing it, until the matter is straightened out.

The matter of the necessary repairs to the pavement along the Brown property on South Allegheny street was referred to the Borough Solicitor.

A request was made by persons erecting new homes on East Curtin Street to have the sewer line extended in Church alley so that they may make connections with it. Two of the three men making the request offered to pay $25 each toward the expense.

LOCAL FARMERS ASKED TO GIVE CENSUS DATA

Question Blanks Issued Seeking Detailed Information.

STATE-WIDE MOVEMENT

Recognizing the need of more complete information pertaining to the agriculture of the State the 1921 Legislature passed an act requiring the assessors, when making the triennial assessment, to gather data relating to the acreage of the principal farm crops, the number of livestock, and other facts pertaining to the agricultural resources of the State as the Sec'y. of Agriculture might require. The Act becomes operative this year. The Department already has the questions made up in convenient book form and ready to be distributed to the Assessors by the County Commissioners. The questions are as follows:

Number in family, male.....female.....

Owner or renter.....

Total acres of land in farm.....

Acres harvested or to be harvested.....winter wheat.....rye.....oats .....Corn for grain..... corn .....buckwheat.....potatoes .....tobacco .....all tame hay, except alfalfa.....alfalfa hay.....number of apple trees bearing age.....number of apples non bearing age.....number peach trees .....livestock on farm .....horses all ages .....mules all ages.....number dairy cows 2 years and over.....number dairy bulls and all other dairy cattle.....number all other cattle all ages.....number hens and pullets that will be kept for egg production.....number steers fattened the past winter.....number swine all ages..... number sheep all ages.....number hives bees.....number silos.....number tractors .....number automobiles.....number motor trucks.....Is farm equipped with electricity? Individual plant (answer yes or no).....from central station (answer yes or no).....has farm a radio outfit? (answer yes or no).....

Sec'y. Willetts, in commenting on the subject, says that he hopes to receive the support of the County Commissioners and Assessors and the farmers in making this census complete since the facts brought out are greatly needed and will be of material benefit to the agriculture of the State.

NO MURDER EVIDENCE

John Pinchok Released Under Bail in Shooting Case.

Following habeas corpus proceedings on Wednesday afternoon, Judge Quigley ruled that there was no evidence of murder in the shooting of Margaret McDowell, at Clarence on Sept. 10th, and ordered John Pinchok released under $1000 bail. Pinchok will be tried on a charge of involuntary manslaughter. Bail was furnished by his father.

At a hearing before 'Squire Woodring on Monday, Pinchok was held without bail for court, and his attorneys immediately filed a petition in habeas corpus, which revealed that the prosecution was unable to prove that he had intentionally shot and killed the 15-year old girl with his revolver.

Witnesses testified that the gun was discharged while it was being closed, Pinchok having "broken" it open to show that it was loaded. Witnesses for the commonwealth contended that the gun was of a make with safety devices and that it could not be discharged without pulling the trigger. The Court in holding Pinchok under $1000 bail for involuntary manslaughter, stated that it was understood that Pinchok had nearly killed another person with a gun some time ago and had also severely injured another with an automobile, and that it was time that such carelessness was stopped.

Prisoners Sentenced.

Two convicts who escaped from Rockview recently were resentenced last Friday, John Meyers, of Mifflin county, sentenced on March 27, 1923, for 1 to 2 years, received a like sentence to be computed at the expiration of the original one. Harry D. Brubaker, who escaped with Meyers, was given a new sentence of 2 to 4 years. The court, however made the statement, when passing sentence, that if the two of them would write to him at the expiration of their original terms, he would take up the matter of their parole with the board of pardons. Neither of the men had the appearance of criminals and both had been "trusties" at Rockview. They were taken to Pittsburgh on Friday. Harry Musser, convicted of second degree murder, was also taken to Pittsburgh on Friday, Sheriff Taylor deeming it prudent to board the train at Millesburg with his prisoners.

Her Rebellious Parents

By H. IRVING KING

(Copyright.)

THE business of Amos Bullard had prospered exceedingly of late. So he built a country house and employed architects and decorators at fancy prices. A young man named Mowray, an interior decorator, had come down to Mount Pleasant, the name of the new mansion and its attached estate, to practice his artistic skill upon the spacious rooms of the great house.

Now among other enterprises which Amos had on hand was the selecting of a husband for his daughter Margaret. In this enterprise he was assisted by his wife with great ability. In fact, Mrs. Amos took the lead in this particular speculation. Margaret was their only child. She must marry not only a fortune, but a fortune attached to a young man of a social station higher than the one hitherto occupied by the Bullards.

Margaret was of an artistic turn of mind and was always hanging about watching the decorators at work. A harmless eccentricity, thought Mrs. Amos, and then, to be interested in art was, really, rather good form. The first that Mrs. Bullard suspected that something was wrong was when Tom Mowray began to exhibit a great and growing profusion of daisies in his decorations. One of Mrs. Bullard's friends calling, and being shown the work in progress one day, remarked: "What a lot of marguerites your decorator uses."

"What, the daisies?" asked Mrs. Amos, whose early education had been neglected.

"Yes—marguerites, we call them."

"Marguerites, Margaret," mused Mrs. Amos, who was a mighty shrewd person; "and Margaret always hanging about watching that young man work!"

That night she said to her husband: "Amos, I suspect something." And she told him what and why.

"Nonsense," said Amos. "Marie is too sensible a girl to fall in love with a mere decorator. However, I'll bundle him out of the house tomorrow. The impudent scalawag."

"Let us call in Margie," said Mrs. Amos, "and find out right now how far this thing has gone."

Margaret was called in. She acknowledged at once that she was in love with Tom Mowray and was going to marry him, if he should ever ask her, and she rather thought he would. Margie was surprised. Heretofore her will had been law to her father and mother. What did they mean by this undutiful conduct?

But the rebellious parents carried the day. Tom was discharged the next morning and Margaret packed off to visit a great-aunt in Oswego. Amos was recounting to one of his business associates this little family incident.

"Tom Mowray!" cried Slater, the business associate aforesaid. "Why, are you sure he is not a son of Old Tom Mowray? Old Tom had a son who went in for art, and his name was the same as his father's."

Amos gasped. Had he, after all, made the great mistake of his life? Old Tom Mowray was that retired capitalist, that possessor of great wealth, known all over the world. To see Margie the wife of a son of Old Tom would indeed be the crowning of a successful life for Amos. Amos was a man of action. Action, and prompt action, accounted for his present wealth. He took a West Shore train and went up the Hudson to where the feudal castle in which Old Tom Mowray had settled down towered above the woods and the swift-running river.

Old Tom received him coldly, merely bowed and waited for his visitor to speak, glancing from time to time at the card which Amos had sent in. Amos was a little disconcerted; but business was business. "I have come, sir," said Amos, "to speak with you upon a matter which, I apprehend, concerns both our families." Tom motioned for Amos to take a chair. They both sat down. Amos told Old Tom of the young decorator, of his daughter and of their having fallen in love with each other. "Now, sir," went on Amos, "I believe that this young man is your son and namesake. I have been so informed. While undoubtedly your son and my daughter are very much in love with each other, I was loath to have the matter go on any further without consulting you."

Old Tom had watched Amos closely as he told his tale. When it was ended the great capitalist said slowly: "Mr. Bullard, you have been misinformed. I have only one son. He is much given to dabbling in art, it is true. But his name is John and he is at present in Italy. Also he has been married two years." The mingled emotion which surged and tumbled together in the breast of Amos caused his face to assume such a peculiar expression that Old Tom—for once in his life—really laughed. Then he said: "The young man you refer to is my nephew. His fortune will be sufficient and he will make a very suitable husband for your daughter. In fact, as the young people fled to me and asked my advice, I have taken the liberty to have them joined in holy wedlock. Tom!" The door opened and in came young Tom and Margie—both blushing, but happy. Amos gave them his blessing—got busy with the long-distance and had Mrs. Amos telephone hers. The rebellious parents had surrendered, but as young Tom had a couple of million coming to him, and was a nephew of Old Tom, they were glorious in their defeat.

WHO'S WHO—and WHEREFORE

Gen. Taylor Now U. S. Chief Engineer

Brig. Gen. Harry Taylor is the new chief of engineers, U. S. A., succeeding Maj. Gen. Lansing H. H. Beach, who has been the incumbent since 1920 and now retires. General Taylor has been an assistant to the chief of engineers, in charge of the civil division, since 1918. He was chief engineer A. E. F. from May, 1917, to September, 1918, and has the D. S. M. and is a member of the Legion of Honor.

General Taylor was born in 1862 in New Hampshire and is a graduate of the United States Military academy (1884) and the Engineering School of Application (1887). His engineering duties have taken him all over the country. Until 1896 he was busy on the Columbia river and on river and harbor works in Oregon and Washington. Then he put in four years in charge of the Puget sound defense works. Next he went to the Philippines for four years. Next he was for several years engaged on defense and other works on Long Island sound. He was assistant to the chief of engineers, 1911-16. From then until he went to France he was in charge of the New York harbor works.

The Corps of Engineers, it should be understood, is not merely a part of the War department. It is charged with many duties in connection with the navigable waters of the country.

Anne Nichols and "Abie's Irish Rose"

A year ago in Chicago began a litigation suit to put a show called "Abie's Irish Rose" into the Studebaker theater. After a battle in the courts lasting nearly a month the play was opened. Three years ago this same comedy was fighting for breath in New York. Producers had spurned it and the Fulton theater in which it was exhibiting played to empty houses. It is now playing at five theaters to crowded houses.

So a woman, single handed, has won out. Anne Nichols began her stage career as an actress. For many years she barnstormed. Then she wrote seven plays for Fiske O'Hara. These were profitable in a small way. Then she wrote "Abie's Irish Rose." It had its first showing in Los Angeles. After 42 weeks on the coast it was moved to New York. The eastern critics gave it a cold shoulder and for five weeks it hovered between life and death. With much difficulty Miss Nichols managed to borrow enough to keep the comedy in the theater despite the fact that all her friends said it "didn't have a chance." She was $30,000 in debt before "Abie" made a nickel profit. It was later transferred into the Republic theater where it still is, now in the third year.

Scott Says U. S. Universities Are Best

Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern university, has returned to the Evanston campus after a ten-weeks' trip in Europe firmly convinced that the United States has by far the best universities and the best educational equipment in the world.

"Regardless of what may have been true in the past, there is no doubt that the best educational opportunities today lie in the United States," President Scott said. "There was a time when students had to go to Europe if they wanted the best education possible, but that is no longer true.

"Our colleges are much better equipped in every line from liberal arts to medicine. In France and England the universities are still tied down by tradition. Most of them do not even try to keep up with the latest ideas in education. Cambridge was the only university I found where they were beginning to modernize equipment."

President Scott plunged at once into the task of registration. This year freshmen, besides taking the usual mental alertness tests, must also be examined in mathematics and English. Before arriving on the campus they must have forwarded six recommendations as to their general character and give reasons why they want to enter college. All are being photographed.

Dr. Smith May Be Seeing 'Em in Alaska

Philip S. Smith, administrative geologist of the United States Geological Survey, will be back in Washington some of these days from Alaska with some interesting stories. At this writing he is exploring for petroleum in the region between the Porcupine and Colville rivers, which is practically unknown. A letter that came through to civilization by Eskimo hands has told of the discovery of a large river which flows west and then north.

London Tit-Bits thinks Doctor Smith may see things more interesting than rivers. It says it is rumored that there are weird animals of immense size up there. Strange tales, it says, have been spread amongst the fur traders and gold hunters by the native Eskimos and Indians regarding the territory which appears on the maps largely as a blank space.

They say the land is haunted by weird beasts, some of such great size that they leave tracks as large as dinner plates. It is stated that no Indian can be persuaded to penetrate this region even though tempted by the promise of abundant fur. Some of the more credulous of the white men, linking these tales with their scientific reading, contend that there may still lurk in the Far North remnants of the mastodon herds that have left their bones and ivory in almost every stream bordering the lower Yukon river.

REMARKABLE PARROT

Science now knows that there once lived in the Rocky mountains a giant parrot, with a massive beak and a raucous voice, which might have resounded like a megaphone for miles through the ancient marshes of prehistoric America. The bird stood seven feet tall, and its huge head was two and a half feet long. Of this much there is no question, one nearly complete skeleton exists, and fragments of others, including skulls, have been dug up. Perhaps 3,000,000 years have elapsed since this mighty fowl trod the earth. Although so mighty, the giant parrot was neither so big nor so formidable as another great bird whose remains have recently been dug up in Patagonia. The latter was a cursorial (running) bird of prey, a monster of the heron family. In fact, it was by far the biggest bird of prey that ever lived, and probably attacked with success large-sized animals. This remarkable fowl, says one authority, had a head bigger than that of a horse, with a huge beak as sharp as a pick. It stood eight high on its sharp-clawed feet. Its neck was as thick as a horse's neck, and its limbs very massive. Like the giant parrot, it had wings too small to be of any use for flight.

The soulless wretch who does not appreciate and encourage the laughter of children probably does not exist outside of fiction of the somber and corrective kind. But perhaps a limited number of persons realize the importance of teaching children to laugh as Doctor Kimmins of the University of London has recently expressed it before the British Association for the Advancement of Science at Toronto. Laughter is the ally of the teacher and it is a pathetically mistaken theory which establishes in the classroom a discipline so strict that sounds of gayety are ruled out. And the child whose early training has not included instruction in laughter has less than the necessary equipment for living. For, as Doctor Kimmins puts it: "In all the important crises of life, the ability to bring to bear the eternal spirit of childhood is a great solace denied to those in whom the sense of humor is lacking."

Sections of the Punjabi region, where opposition to the British government is strongest, were visited by the black plague during the past months. For a time an average of 9,000 people died each day. But the British, hated as they are and much maligned by native agitators, rushed their doctors and nurses to the stricken territory and with thoroughgoing efficiency fought that greatest scourge of the human race and practically controlled the outbreak within two months. That was a mighty victory, greater than any ever won by generals on the field of battle, says the Atlanta Constitution. Of course, there were heavy casualties. Scores of young physicians and nurses fell victims, but that was part of the game. There are always unselfish characters, willing to sacrifice themselves for the good of humanity. Though they are often unknown, their glory is none the less.

The new high mark made by America's export of automotive vehicles in the year ending June 30, marks the progress of an industry that has already carried far and is in the way to go much further. With production of passenger cars and trucks running to nearly 4,000,000, more than 500,000 in excess of the preceding year, and with export vehicles aggregating approximately 200,000, the automotive industry attains proportions that are amazing to those who recall its comparatively recent birth. The American car becomes more popular in foreign countries as experience demonstrates its qualities.

There is but one elixir of youth that is any good. And that is a clean life, a clear conscience, regular personal habits, a simple diet, steady work according to one's strength in some useful vocation, and a kindly spirit. Mix thoroughly and take every day every year. That prescription regularly taken will produce, not, perhaps, actual youth, but peradventure something more satisfying and even more beautiful.

Where Customs Are Strongly Defended

Alsace-Lorraine Stubbornly Opposes Any Changes.

Washington, D. C.—Reports of dissatisfaction in parts of Alsace over the suggested operation of French laws relating to churches, do not raise pro-German or pro-French questions but rather emphasize the outstanding spirit of independence that is possessed by both Alsatians and Lorrainers, according to a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Living in a border land, the people of Alsace and Lorraine have developed an independent spirit not unlike that of the Swiss," says the bulletin. "They are admittedly a mixture of both Gallic and Alemannic stocks. Studies of head measurements have shown this. But their languages set them apart almost like separate little nations. The speech of the great majority of Alsatians is a German dialect, but it is almost as meaningless to the ears of a Berliner as is French. In Lorraine a French patois is widely spoken, but it is an alien tongue to the Parisian.

Wanted Own Tongue.

"The independence of the people has showed itself in regard to the language question under both French and German regimes. Before 1871 some more or less desultory efforts at the compulsory teaching of French in the schools of Alsace were combated as were the intensive efforts to force the use of modern German after that date.

"So, too, the Alsatian has evidenced his independence by insisting on retaining his own religion, whatever the attitude of his sovereign country of the moment. When France held Alsace and Lorraine before 1871, priests and pastors opposed the teaching of French because of opposition to the French literature of the day. In 1872 the religious leaders found themselves in opposition to the German government over the suppression of religious schools; and today the same people insist to the French just as vigorously on retention of their religious privileges.

"The geographical position of Alsace and Lorraine has largely determined their development and that of their people. They have been cross roads as well as border countries since Roman days. The Rhine, great traffic artery of Europe farther north, has always been a barrier where it skirts Alsace. Until recent years even part-year navigation was impossible along this stretch of the river. South of Strasburg the Rhine had a labyrinth of courses, sprawling over a wide valley, and creating in flood time a broad region of morasses.

"The low, unhealthy, useless valley of the Rhine along Alsace's eastern border, together with the barren nature of the bench-land inland from the river, condemned this eastern strip of Alsace to almost complete desertion. Even today this Rhineward plain is sparsely settled. The thriving cities of Alsace are situated in a zone from ten to twelve miles inland from the Rhine in the parallel valley of the Ill or slightly westward along the Vosges foothills. Even Strasburg is not a true Rhine city. It was built on the Ill where the latter flows two or three miles west of the Rhine, but in recent years the city has grown eastward until it touches the larger stream.

"At Strasburg highways converge from across the Vosges hills, geographical factors which helped to foreordain the growth of an important city at this Rhine crossing. Strasburg's name itself tells the story, for it means 'City of Roads.'

Mineral Wealth Important.

"In addition to the plain along the Rhine Alsace includes the eastern slope of the Vosges. Along the foothills grapes grow to perfection and the region is one of the important wine-producing countries of Europe.

"Lorraine differs from Alsace both in environment and type of population. In fact there is little to group these two areas for political administration save that together they almost completely fill the gap between Germany and France. Lorraine is a plateau, cooler than the lower Alsatian plain and given over, so far as its agriculture is concerned, largely to pastures and cattle raising. The people, not so isolated from France as the Alsatians, have somewhat closer affiliations with Latin culture.

"Industry has claimed considerable areas of both Alsace and Lorraine from their old paths of agriculture. Textile factories are concentrated chiefly in southern Alsace and in some of the Vosges valleys. The predominant industry in Lorraine is metallurgy. Near the Luxemburg frontier are coal deposits and beds of iron ore, the latter the largest in Europe. The coal is in the famous Saar basin. All about this region are concentrated populations of miners and metal workers. Alsace has no iron or coal, but near Mulhausen it possesses potash deposits exceeded in value only by those of northern Germany. These two deposits constitute practically the world supply of this indispensable fertilizer ingredient."

Moscow to Tax Visitors to Build Toilers' Homes

Moscow.—Visitors to Moscow will hereafter be taxed from $50 to $150. This measure, which was proposed by the Moscow soviet, is designed to prevent further overcrowding of the Russian capital, which is exceeding all bounds. The money will go toward building homes for the working population. It is not yet clear whether the regulation will apply to Americans and other foreigners visiting Russia.

Silk Coffin for Cat

Ludington, Mich.—The funeral of "Nichalou," an Angora cat, took place recently in Eden township. The cortege included only his owner, Mrs. Fred S. Noyes, who purchased a dainty white brocaded casket, lined with silk, from a local undertaker. There were flowers, too, roses and carnations. "Nichalou" had attained the age of seventeen.

Diseased Adenoids Bring Many Evils

Survey Shows Operations Beneficial in Many Ways.

Washington.—An investigation made to determine the average result of operations for the removal of enlarged tonsils and adenoids has recently been carried out at Leicester, England. In a report, reproduced by the United States public health service, on a series of operations on unselected cases at the school clinic at Leicester, J. Keen, aural surgeon to the Leicester education committee, gives the results with regard to the following conditions of the child: Mental condition, symptoms, surgical results, increase in height and weight and malnutrition.

Complete reports were furnished by the teachers for 666 children. Definite weight and height measurements were made for a period before and after operations and the child's mental progress was ascertained from the teachers. The reports from the teachers showed an improvement in particular, as follows: A reduction of 32 per cent in the number of children whose attendances were irregular. A reduction of 34 per cent in the number of those who were retarded in school work. A reduction of 45 per cent in those appearing deaf to the teachers. A reduction of 23 per cent of those classified as dull.

Beneficial Results.

"While it is noted that observation of symptoms may not be considered important because of the subjective character of the information and because any form of active treatment is likely to be regarded as beneficial, it is stated that in 600 cases for which were records complete, only 4 per cent were said to be not improved under the headings 'Coughs and Colds,' 'Breathing' and 'General Health,'" says a summary of the survey by the health service. "In those cases in which the hearing was impaired (about 50 per cent of the whole), only about 3 per cent were stated to be unchanged. The remaining 97 per cent of the total number were improved.

"No case of excessive scarring interfering with phonation was noted, and vestiges of tonsils remained in only 3 per cent of the cases.

"The weight and height results were tabulated according to sex and age groups—four to thirteen years—and compared with figures given in the Tuxford and Glagg tables for urban districts. For each age group for both boys and girls the percentage of average increase was greater than that given in the tables used for comparison.

Conclusions.

"For determining malnutrition, the Wood standard tables were used, and all children under 10 per cent of the average 'right' weight were considered to be suffering from malnutrition. While the objections to such an index were considered and it is believed that, although the absolute number indicated as malnourished may not necessarily be accurate, the change in the ratio of cases before and after treatment would be free from the personal factor and would be of definite value.

"It was shown that the number of malnourished children was reduced in every age group. The percentage reduction was 44 in the boys and 41 in the girls. Since the prevailing economic conditions in the homes of these children remained practically the same during the period of the study, it was considered logical to credit the improvement to the removal of the diseased tonsillar and adenoid tissue in the children concerned, in view of the fact a septic focus or the continuous swallowing of mucus from the nasopharynx delays the assimilation and absorptive capacity of the alimentary canal.

"Although the number of children dealt with is comparatively small, unselected cases in a continuous series of routine work were considered, and it is remarked that whether the average increases in height and weight are considered, or whether malnutrition is used as an index, the results point consistently to the conclusion that this operation is followed by clearly definite improvements to the general health and physique, quite apart from the relief which the treatment affords to more local symptoms."

Boy Scouts Rescue Woman Lost 3 Days

Erwinna, Pa.—Boy Scouts from the summer camp at Treasure island, in the Delaware, rescued an eighty-three-year-old woman who had been lost in the woods more than three days, about six miles from the camp, after suffering injury in a fall.

Mrs. Charles Moser left her farm near the camp to go berry picking. When she did not return, relatives and neighbors searched the woods but failed to find her.

Forty-one scouts and leaders volunteered for the work. They searched the woods near the Moser home five hours in small groups. Finally Philip Dalling, an Overbrook scout, found a blue apron and a few minutes later Thomas Mackay, a patrol leader of Olney, heard a faint cry and found the aged woman seated on the ground. She said she had hurt herself in a fall over a stone.

EPILEPTIC FIT INTERVENES TO STOP ROBBERY

Capricious Fate Steps In to Thwart Well-Laid Plans of Bandits.

Houston, Texas.—Choosing an epileptic fit as her weapon, capricious fate intervened to prevent a robbery and perhaps save a life at the Citizens' State bank.

In the silent after-midnight darkness three men, revolvers drawn and black masks ready to hand, squatted beneath a counter of the bank. They were listening. In a moment they intended to crawl on top of the big vault, there to wait for daylight and the coming of the first employee.

Their hearts beat fast and hard with excitement; and, as they crouched, one of the trio suddenly gave a loud gasp. The other two, surprised and infuriated, turned on him with snarls and muttered curses. But he paid no attention. He had dropped his gun and mask, and was writhing and jerking on the floor. The whites of his eyes shone strangely in the gloom.

Become Alarmed.

His two companions became alarmed. In vain they shook and pummeled him; he seemed unaware of their presence. And then cold terror made their stomachs quake. What had seized him in the deep blackness? Their sense of guilt made every sound from the stricken man seem thunderous and horrible; and in another moment they leaped up, and leaving him there, fled out through the window by which they had entered.

This was the story told to city detectives and Sheriff Binford by William H. Cox, twenty-four, who was found unconscious beneath the counter by L. B. Thompson, cashier of the bank, at 7 a. m. Monday.

On seeing the revolver and mask beside the prostrate man, Thompson telephoned to the police. They took Cox to headquarters, where he remained in a semi-conscious condition for several hours. When he recovered he returned to the bank with Sheriff Binford and detectives Arch Spradley, George Andrews and Tom Bass, and explained to them just how he and his companions had planned to stage a hold-up. He was bitter because they had run away and left him.

An Ironical Joke.

Before entering the bank they cut the telephone wire, he said.

Then they worked out their campaign. They decided to get on top of the vault, which was about nine feet high, and where, if they lay flat, they would be invisible to anyone entering the bank. They figured that the first act of the first employee to arrive would be to open the vault; and then it would be easy to reach over the edge and cover him with their weapons.

But as they were about to scramble up, fate and Cox's nerves played them an ironical joke.

According to Sheriff Binford, Cox said he estimated his share of the haul would be $20,000, and that he intended to bury it. He declared he was a carpenter by trade, and recently had returned here from Los Angeles.

The sheriff and detectives called on Cox's mother, who lives near the Yale street road, and who, they said, confirmed his statement that he was subject to epileptic fits. A charge of burglary was filed against him in Justice Campbell Overstreet's court.

Eagle Picks Up Boy; Is Caught in Struggle

Chatham, Ont.—An eagle measuring eight feet from tip to tip picked up fourteen-year-old Fred Cunningham, weighing 97 pounds, on a golf course near here, lifted him five feet in the air and then dropped him when his clothing gave way, according to the story told by the lad today. Cunningham, clawed and scratched, managed to net the bird in a wire fence, where it was killed by a citizen.

Rivet in Her Nose

Higbee, Mo.—After physicians had treated the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Lusby of this place for catarrh one year, it was discovered the child had a large copper rivet in her nose. The rivet was removed and the child's "catarrhal" condition is rapidly disappearing.

"Prose" and "Pro's"

In sporting matters the average boy's erudition is aptly illustrated by a story a certain educator is fond of telling. A teacher was trying to explain to a group of youngsters the respective properties of poetry and prose. Her audience was rather bored but she thought she caught a glimpse of understanding on one boy's face. Brightly turning to him she said: "Now, Tommy, give me one definition of prose." "People who get paid for playing golf," was the answer which proved enigmatic to the teacher.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best-- Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says, "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by parcel post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.—Advertisement.

Advice to Mothers!

Charleston, West Va.—"I think Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is just the very best tonic and nervine that the expectant mother can take. I had gotten all rundown, had a draggy, worn-out feeling, was nervous and weak. I had severe backaches and pains in my side, but after taking a few bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' I got along fine, did not suffer any more distress, my nerves were good and I felt well and strong the remainder of the time. It puts a woman in such good physical condition that she has practically no suffering."—Mrs. Emma Little, 11 Jarretts Court. All dealers.

FARM CALENDAR

Timely Reminders From The Pennsylvania State College.

SHADE TREES

Street and shade trees can best be pruned in the fall while the leaves are still on the trees. In this way the effect desired can be more successfully worked out than when the tree is but a bare skeleton of branches.

LIGHTS FOR POULTRY

Early hatched pullets can often be carried through the fall season without molting by using electric lights. Plan to give such birds a 13 or 14 hour day. Morning lights will probably be most satisfactory. When lights are used for this purpose, care should be exercised in maintaining the body weight of the birds by feeding plenty of scratch grain.

WINTER EVENINGS

Penna. State College agricultural home study courses offer a means for profitable use of long winter evenings that will soon be here. Thirty-seven courses are offered this year, ranging from bees to horses and garment making to house furnishing for the women folks. A bulletin describing the courses may be secured from the Agriculture Correspondence Department at State College, Pa.

WINTER SPINACH

Vegetable growers in the Philadelphia district seed spinach for holding over winter between the 1st and 15th of October. The Savoy type is recommended. A straw or strawy manure mulch should be put on as soon as the ground freezes.

TOOL CARE

While the weather is pleasant is a good time to put all soil working tools used during the summer in shape for winter storage. Paint is necessary in most cases and moving parts and sharp edges should be coated with crank case drainings.

IN THE GARDEN

Mulch the strawberry bed with fallen leaves; clean out the raspberry patch and burn all old dead canes; remove old canes of current and gooseberry bushes to give room for younger or more thrifty canes.

OVER THE COUNTY

Fire, originating in an overheated stove, caused the destruction of the little guard house at the Boal camp at Boalsburg on Monday evening of last week. One of the stable crew had been sleeping in the building, and it is understood, had a very hot fire in a small stove.

A party of tourists had a narrow escape from death last week when the car in which they were riding plunged over the embankment and 50 feet down over the side of the mountain on the road from Madisonburg to Nittany. None of them were hurt however, the car staying upright in its plunge, until it came to rest against a tree. It sustained a broken wheel and a badly damaged fender.

L. L. Smith, of Centre Hall, sold his garage business last week to Walter Hosterman, who has for some time past been connected with the Snyder garage at State College. The new owner will take possession January 1st. Mr. Smith has retained the ownership of the property for the present, but hopes to dispose of at least that part of it which houses the garage to Mr. Hosterman.

One of the largest Poultry Shows of the year will take place at Penn State when the second annual State Standard Poultry Show is staged there on October 23, 24 and 25. This display will take place under the supervision of the Poultry Department and the Penn State Poultry Club, which is working very hard to make this year's show the best ever held in the state. The Stock Judging Pavilion, situated back of the Dairy Building, will be the place where the birds will be cooped.

Republican Nominee For Legislature.

John L. Holmes, Republican nominee for the office of Representative in the General Assembly for Centre County, was born at Centre Furnace and has always resided in Centre County. His boyhood days were spent in Marion and Ferguson Townships, and at the age of thirteen he met with an accident while cutting corn on his father's farm in Ferguson Township which resulted in his being permanently crippled.

He prepared for the profession of teaching at the Spring Mills summer schools and at the Pennsylvania State College. For the years of 1890—1 and 1891—2 he was engaged as the teacher for Krumrine school in Ferguson Township. During the summer of these two years he was employed in the Hartswick stone quarries. In 1892 he moved to State College where he taught in the public schools and was employed as a clerk in his father's store until 1901 when he purchased the Condo store and entered upon a business career of general merchandising. He continued in business until the year 1905 when he disposed of his place of business to his brother-in law, L. D. Fye.

Mr. Holmes was appointed as a Notary Public and opened an office for the purchase and sale of real estate, investments and fire insurance. In 1921 he disposed of the insurance business which, through his energetic methods, represented a valuable asset, and from this time devoted his entire attention to real estate and other investments continuing to act as Notary Public. His fellow-townsmen elected him in the year 1896 to the office of tax collector for the Borough of State College and he continued to serve the Borough in this capacity until the year 1913 when he was elected to the position of Burgess of the Borough of State College which office he filled with credit and satisfaction to his fellow-townsmen until the year 1921.

Mr. Holmes is an official member of the Presbyterian Church of State College, an active Sunday School worker, and deeply interested in every movement, religious or civic, which contributes to the welfare and the betterment of church and community. He is president of the State College Public Library Association and of the Mount Nittany Building and Loan Association, a Director of the University Club of Pennsylvania State College and the Centre County Hospital, a member of the I. O. O. F., the P. O. S. of A. and the United Sportsmen of Pennsylvania. As Burgess of the Borough of State College during the World War, he was active in all the Liberty Loan and welfare drives, serving on the committee of public information and the committee of public safety of which committee he was manager for farm labor in Centre County.

Mr. Holmes possesses to a very high degree the esteem and confidence of his fellow-townsmen and has always supported by voice and contribution every movement inaugurated for the moral, intellectual and civic advance of not only his own community but of County, State and Nation. He is strictly temperate and is in favor of rigid endorcement of the law and holds that no one has the right to elect which laws they will obey and which they will disobey. He has always encouraged a liberal appropriation for education, the building and maintenance of good roads, provision for the care of the insane, hospitals and correctional institutions.

Successful in the conduct of his personal affairs which has been the result of industry, wise management and a sane conservation of his resources, he holds that the same factors which make for success in the affairs of the individual should govern the conduct of the business of the public. Mr. Holmes counts no sacrifice too great in service to his fellows and with high ideals, fearless in following where duty directs, a clear thinker and convincing talker, he possesses the qualifications to a high degree to creditably represent every interest of Centre County in the General Assembly.

Emanuel P. Shook Dead.

Emanuel P. Shook, a well known resident of Spring Mills, died at his home at that place recently, from blood-poisoning, arising from an abrasion on his knuckle. Deceased was aged 61 years and was unmarried. Two brothers, Daniel and Andrew, both of Spring Mills, survive. Funeral services were held on Friday afternoon. Interment at Spring Mills.

EARTH'S NEW RULER

Feverish Changes of Government Forecast a New Order.

The lecture given last Thursday evening, Oct. 2, at the Moose Temple Theatre by G. R. Pollock, on the subject, "World Dominion Being Transferred," was well attended and the speaker was given good attention. He said in part: The World war came as a shock because it was thought humanity was so far advanced that war was practically outlawed through preaching of the Gospel. The Scriptures describe our day, saying, "Upon the earth distress of nations, with perplexity; the sea and the waves roaring; men's hearts failing them for fear, and for looking after those things which are coming on the earth; for the powers of heaven shall be shaken." Luke 21: 25,26. The powers of heaven mean the spiritual ruling powers of ecclesiasticism. Thus it forecasts a commotion in the religions world. This we see has already developed among those called Modernists and Fundamentalists.

The prophet Isaiah (24:20,21) says, "The earth shall reel to and fro like a drunkard, and shall be removed like a cottage . . . And it shall come to pass in that day that the Lord will punish the host of the high ones that are on high and the kings of the earth upon the earth." The earth here means the people of the present social order, and they are bewildered and confused. The punishment coming to the high ones and to the kings means they shall be rendered powerless.

The Psalmist (107:26,27) gives his verdict: "Their soul is melted because of trouble. They reel to and fro and stagger like a drunken man, and are at their wits' end." And verses 28-30 shows that God will bring the world out of its trouble, and bring peace and quietness and make the world of mankind glad.

God chose the children of Abraham to be His representative people until the "seed of promise" should come. The seed, Paul explains, is Christ and his Church glorified, which will bless all the families of the earth.—Gen. 12:2,3. May it not be, then, that the world unknowingly is passing over the threshold of the Messianic kingdom into that wonderful time when the earth will yield her increase and become like Eden, and the human family will get well of all sickness and grow into mental, moral and physical perfection and live forever!—Jeremiah 33:6; Isaiah 33:24; Job 33:24-26. The kingdom for which Christians have prayed so long is at the door. This means a kingdom of peace and happiness and life upon the earth to all the willing and obedient. The Lord shall make "wars to cease unto the end of the earth" The race shall then enter into its promised inheritance.—Psalms 37:29; John 8:51.

Two Women Injured.

Mrs. Willis Flack and Mrs. Jane Garman, both of Milesburg, were the victims of a crash at Snow Shoe Intersection last Sunday afternoon. One car, a Maxwell, driven by a man from Karthaus, was coming out of an alley beside the blacksmith shop, when an Overland driven by Mr. Flack, of Milesburg, was coming down the concrete road toward Milesburg. Mrs. Flack was thrown clear out of her husband's car onto the hard road in such a manner that the broken front wheel of the Maxwell rested on her body. She sustained three broken ribs, and a serious injury to her back. Mrs. Garman, who was an occupant of the Maxwell, was not thrown from the car, but injured her neck severely and sustained numerous bruises. Both of the cars were badly smashed.

Garman—Shutt.

John A. Garman, youngest son of William Garman, and Miss Mary Shutt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Shutt, were united in marriage at the Methodist parsonage at Cumberland, Md., by the pastor, Rev. H. L. Schliche, last Friday. The groom is employed as a clerk at the P. R. R. freight station. The bride was in her senior year at High School. The young couple have secured apartments at the "Weeping Willow" tea room at Runville.

Gates—Conrad.

Harry S. Gates, who recently removed to Philipsburg from Port Matilda, was married last Thursday morning to Anna Mary Conrad, of Juniata. The wedding took place at the parsonage of the Evangelical church, and was performed by the pastor, Rev. C. C. Mizner, who used the beautiful ring ceremony. The groom is employed by the Lauderbach—Greist company, of Philipsburg, where the young couple will make their home.

Tate—Crawford.

Miss Florence L. Crawford, of Coleville, and Andrew J. Tate, of Pleasant Gap, were united in marriage at 1 o'clock last Saturday afternoon in the parsonage of the Grace Methodist church, at Williamsport, by the pastor, Rev. Alexander Scott. Mr. and Mrs. Tate will live at Pleasant Gap.

Admitted to Hospital.

Mrs. Steve Sutika, of Snow Shoe, was admitted to the Lock Haven Hospital on Monday as a medical patient.

Election of Hospital Board.

Every person who contributed to the Centre County Hospital is requested to be on hand at the Court House next Monday evening, for the election of the new board of trustees. Bellefonte and Spring, Marion, Walker and Benner townships are entitled to 8 representatives which will be elected at the coming meeting. There are ten names which have been proposed. Every person who contributed from the above named district is automatically made a member of the corporation, and is thus entitled to a vote. It is up to you to see how your money is spent. The election of the trustees allotted to the other 6 districts will be carried on locally in those districts.

—and I'll Be Laid Up Several Weeks Longer

WHY, a brick fell from the third floor of a new building and connected with my head. In a hospital for a long time with a cracked skull, fever, delirious, and heaven knows what all.

But every month, regular as clockwork, along came a check for $200 from the ÆTNA. You see, my ÆTNA ACCIDENT POLICY calls for $50 weekly while totally disabled, $25 a week while partly out of commission, and also surgeon's fees or hospital bills. Makes it hard for me, eh? Man, I'm an optimist of the purest ray serene.

What did the policy cost? If I told you how little, you'd say I'm still raving. Come up tonight and I'll tell you. So long!

Sedan Wrecked.

A Ford sedan owned by Rev. C. J. Krahnke, chaplain at Rockview, was almost totally wrecked late Saturday night by H. E. Putnam, one of the guards at the penitentiary. Putnam had borrowed the chaplain's car to drive to his home in Lock Haven over Sunday. When he attempted to pass another car nearby Huston he swung too far to the left of the road and the Ford plunged over an embankment. Putnam, who was the only occupant, was not injured.

Jesse Klinger Dead.

Jesse Klinger, a well known young farmer of nearby Lemont, died suddenly at the Centre County Hospital on Tuesday morning at 5:22 o'clock, following a brief illness which started with an attack of indigestion. Deceased was born at Lemont, October 9, 1901, and was a son of Ms. and Mrs. J. W. Klinger of Lemont. He was married just 4 months ago to Miss Margaret Williams, also of that place. He was a graduate of the State College High school and of the Pennsylvania State College, class of '23. Surviving are his parents, his wife, and one sister, Mrs. R. M. Walker, of Oak Hall. Funeral services will be held from the Evangelical church of Lemont, of which the deceased was a member, on Friday morning. Rev. Mr. Piper, assisted by Rev. Mr. Bingamin, of State College, and Rev. C. C. Shuey, of Bellefonte, will officiate. Interment in the Houserville cemetery.

Ira Gunsallus Dead

Ira Gunsallus, 89 years old, a retired farmer of Beech Creek, died at his home last Sunday, from complications arising from his advanced age. Deceased was one of the oldest residents of Beech Creek, and before his retirement several years ago, one of the most successful farmers. He is survived by his widow and the following children: Mrs. Helen McClintock, of Belleville, O.; Mrs. Ira Hunter, of Bellwood; Mrs. John Winn, Mrs. Joseph Miller, and Jerry, of Altoona; Monty, Henry, Lee, Wilber and Zena, all at home. Funeral services were conducted from the late home on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment in the Blanchard cemetery.

Benjamin Vonada Dead.

Benjamin F. Vonada died at the home of his son Edwin, at Jacksonville, last Sunday morning at 8 o'clock, from apoplexy. He was aged 74 years, 1 month and 5 days. Deceased was born at Zion, Aug. 30, 1850, and was a son of Adam and Lucy Vonada. He was united in marriage in 1872 to Julia Lutz, who preceded him to the grave 11 years ago. The following children survive: William H., Blanchard; Franklin E., Hublersburg, Edwin E., Jacksonville; Mrs. O. M. Kling, Juniata; Mrs. Charles B. Heltman, Mackeyville. Two brothers also survive, Harvey and W. C. Vonada, both of Zion. Funeral services were held on Wednesday morning from the Reformed church, Rev. Mr. Gass officiating.

Mrs. Lucy Harlacher Dead.

Mrs. Lucy J. Gray Harlacher, 81 years old, widow of the late Frank Harlacher, died at her farm in Halfmoon valley on Monday of last week. Deceased was a daughter of Jacob and Susan Elder Gray, and was born on her father's farm near that of her own. She attended Dickinson seminary and in 1868 was united in marriage to Mr. Harlacher. She was active in Methodist church circles all her life. Surviving are a son, Gray, and two daughters, Susan, at home, and Mrs. Andrew Mellville, of Greenwich, Conn. One sister, Mrs. P. E. Sellers, of Halfmoon valley, also survives.

Recluse Found Dead.

Eldridge C. Howland, who lived alone in a cabin on McCreary run, a branch of Young Woman's creek, 6 miles beyond North Bend, was found dead last Friday. Presumably he killed himself. A bullet wound was found in his head, and nearby the body was found a rusty 32-calibre revolver. In his pockets was found over $20 in money. Howland was 49 years old and eked out an existence by gathering and selling ginseng roots.

Miss Lorena Meyers Dead.

Miss Lorena Elizabeth Meyers, of Coburn, died at the Mercy hospital, at Altoona, on Saturday morning from pneumonia. Deceased was a daughter of Ernest A. and Bertha Meyers, and was born at Altoona, October 26, 1904. She is survived by her mother, and a half-sister, Mrs. Alberta Doyle, both of Altoona.

David W. Roop Dead.

David W. Roop, a former well-known and highly esteemed resident of Philipsburg, died last Saturday at Akron, O. He was aged about 65 years. He was a resident of Philipsburg some years ago, but most of his earlier life was spent in the vicinity of Kylertown and Munson.

Ben Franklin Enjoyed Good Things of Life

Benjamin Franklin was one of those rare men who lived so happily and so abundantly that the reader of his life finds himself wishing he might have been a contemporary.

He was regarded as one of the wisest members of the First congress, yet he seldom spoke and he spent a great part of his time fast asleep in his chair.

He drank too much, he ate too much; instead of exercising, he played chess. He suffered the piercing pains of gout. He confessed all his faults with delightful humor and frankness.

At sixteen he wrote an article for his brother's newspaper, describing the night life of Boston, and at seventy he was still indulging in pleasant romances with young and beautiful French women. He missed nothing.

As he added years to his age and dollars to his income, he violated many of Poor Richard's precepts.

His common sense led him to take hot baths twice a week, when the general custom was to bathe not oftener than two or three times a year. He believed in fresh air, and even night air, while the doctors were still using leeches as a cure-all.

He enjoyed life to the utmost. He was the master of his circumstances from the age of sixteen, when he ran away from home, to the ripe age of eighty-four, when he passed on, with all his affairs in order. He left an estate of a quarter million dollars for his heirs.—William Feather Magazine.

Science Poor Second in Light Production

What is the most efficient light in the world?

Some people might vote at once for the "last word" of science in artificial illumination, but they would be wrong. The most efficient light known to us was known in the days of pine torches and rush-lights. It is that with which nature has endowed the glow-worm and the firefly.

Science has so far failed to solve the problem of the production of light without heat—a problem which seems to have given Dame Nature no difficulty. In all artificial light production an enormous amount of energy is lost in the form of heat rays and chemical rays.

Thus a four-watt carbon glow lamp has a luminous efficiency of less than a half per cent, and the most perfect artificial illuminant has an efficiency of only 4 per cent.

Science here compares badly with nature, for the luminous efficiency of the firefly is no less than 99.5 per cent, while the glow-worm's light is 80 times more efficient than a tungsten lamp.

English Bird Sanctuary

On the outskirts of London, and within half an hour's journey from the city, is one of the most beautiful bits of woodland in England. Few Americans, or Londoners either, have ever visited this place, or even know of its existence. It is a bird sanctuary, a veritable land of song, which is carefully fenced and guarded by keepers night and day, and where every kind of British bird lives and nests unharmed. The wood lies in the Brent valley and was bought for London two years ago and established as a permanent memorial to Gilbert White, the author of the "History of Shelborne," by the Shelborne society. The sanctuary, however, has been in existence just 21 years, and in its 19 acres, in the boughs of its many oak trees and the coppices of hazel, owls, willow warblers, bluetits, goldfinches, nightingales, black caps and many other birds may be seen.

Assyrian Horticulture

Many common plants and flowers are referred to in the ancient cuneiform tablets dug up in the ruins of Babylon and other Assyrian cities. Fifty more, many of them drug plants, have been identified quite recently through a study of the relative frequency in which the names occur, their therapeutic use, and the comparison of the word with the name of the flower or plant in other Semitic languages. Among the new plants believed to have been identified are the rose, the daisy, mustard, asafoetida, sumach, hemp, chamomile, apricot, cherry and mulberry.

Meaning of "Dickens"

"Dickens" is an interjectional expression signifying astonishment, impatience and irritation. It is usually used with words of interrogation such as what, where, how and why. The name has nothing to do with Charles Dickens. It was used by Shakespeare over two centuries before Dickens was born. In "Merry Wives of Windsor" Mrs. Page says: "I cannot tell what the dickens his name is my husband had him of." "Dickens" is believed to be a euphemism for deuce or devil, which have the same initial letter.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Make for Happiness

All real and wholesome enjoyments possible to man have been just as possible to him since first he was made of the earth, as they are now; and they are possible to him chiefly in peace. To watch the corn grow, and the blossoms set; to draw hard breath over plowshare or spade; to read, to think, to love, to hope, to pray—these are the things that make men happy —John Ruskin.

NOTICE.

Of annual corporate meeting of CENTRE COUNTY HOSPITAL.

Notice is hereby given that the annual corporate meeting of the members of Centre County Hospital will be held at the Court House in Bellefonte, Pa. on Monday, October 13, 1924, at 8:00 o'clock P. M. for the purpose of electing the fifteen Trustees as hereinafter indicated, and to transact such other business as shall properly come before said meeting.

In accordance with Article IV of the By-Laws of the Centre County Hospital previously adopted and now in force, the fifteen Trustees to be elected are to be divided into three classes, each class to be composed of five members of the Board; those of the first class to serve for the term of one year, those of the second class to serve for the term of two years, and those of the third class to serve for the term of three years respectively.

District No. I, consisting of Bellefonte Borough and Spring, Marion, Walker and Benner Townships, is entitled to elect eight of said Trustees, five thereof in the first class and the remaining three thereof in the second class.

District No. II, consisting of State College Borough and College, Ferguson, Half Moon, Harris and Patton Townships, is entitled to elect two of said Trustees, both in the second class.

District No. III, consisting of Centre Hall Borough and Potter and Gregg Townships; District No. IV, consisting of Millheim Borough and Haines, Miles and Penn Townships; District No. V, consisting of Unionville Borough and Union, Huston, Worth and Taylor Townships; District No. VI, consisting of Howard Borough, Milesburg Borough and Boggs Curtin, Howard and Liberty Townships; and District No. VII, consisting of Snow Shoe Borough and Snow Shoe and Burnside Townships; are each entitled to elect one of said Trustees, aggregating five Trustees, all of said last mentioned five Trustees in the third class.

The eight Trustees to which District No. I is entitled shall be assigned to the first and second classes respectively, in this order, in accordance with an alphabetical arrangement of their last names, that is to say, the five Trustees whose last names begin with earlier letters of the alphabet shall be assigned to the first class and the remaining three of said Trustees shall be assigned to the second class.

Each of the six Districts, Nos. II, III, IV, V, VI and VII, is entitled to hold a preliminary meeting of the members of the corporation resident in each of said Districts respectively, at a designated place within their respective Districts at a convenient time prior to the above mentioned date, and then and there to elect the Trustee or Trustees to which each of said Districts is entitled respectively, and to report the result of such preliminary elections to said annual meeting.

The election at said annual meeting shall be confined to the election of Trustees for District No. I and of any additional Trustees not elected for said other Districts at such preliminary elections.

Printed copies of the By-Laws of the Centre County Hospital can be obtained on application to the Secretary.

ALL PERSONS OVER TWENTY-ONE YEARS OF AGE AND ALL CORPORATIONS OF WHATEVER AGE, IRRESPECTIVE OF HIS, HER, OR THEIR PLACE OF RESIDENCE, THAT HAVE CONTRIBUTED TO THE RECENT HOSPITAL CAMPAIGN FUND, OR HAVE OTHERWISE CONTRIBUTED TO THIS HOSPITAL DURING THE YEAR ENDING AT SAID ANNUAL MEETING AT LEAST THE SUM OF ONE DOLLAR IN CASH, ARE MEMBERS OF THE CORPORATION ENTITLED TO VOTE FOR THE ELECTION OF TRUSTEES AS ABOVE INDICATED, AND TO TAKE PART IN THE DELIBERATIONS OF SAID MEETING.

By order of the Board,
RALPH MALLORY,
Secretary.

EVEN SIGHT OF FOOD WOULD SICKEN HIM

But Frey Quickly Overcame His Troubles by Taking Tanlac.

"What it takes to build a man up and make him feel right, Tanlac certainly has it," states George W. Frey, Jr., a well-known printer, 623 Greenway Ave., Philadelphia, Pa.

"Before taking Tanlac I was badly run-down. For several months my stomach had been so upset that even the sight and smell of food was sickening to me. My nerves were all undone, my sleep unsound and I had no strength to do anything. I never even went out any place after work hours, because I was always too tired.

"Three bottles of Tanlac has made me feel like a new person. It has put my stomach in first-class condition, strengthened my body and steadied my nerves. I sleep good nights, get up mornings feeling fine and do my work without getting tired. I will continue taking Tanlac, as it keeps my system in a good, healthy condition."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

She Threw Away Calomel and took Beecham's Pills

"I felt so miserable," said the young woman cashier in a fashionable New Jersey hotel. "A friend suggested calomel and I was about to take it.

"Another friend noticed the calomel on my desk and cautioned me against it. She said her sister took calomel and ate some fruit and the combination 'salivated' her—loosened some of her teeth and made her very sick.

"Fearing that my stomach might be in an acid condition, I bought a 25c box of Beecham's Pills and took a dose. The next day I felt fine and I haven't needed anything during the three weeks since.

"I wouldn't take anything but Beecham's now. Some of the other girls here take Beecham's and all say they are wonderful."

Father Planned to Smother His Baby

Kansas City, Mo.—Loren Peerson, nineteen years old, admitted, according to the police, that he escaped from a constable after being caught digging a grave in which he planned to bury a month-old baby boy in a pasture east of this city.

"I intended to smother my baby and bury it to save my family and my wife's family from disgrace," Peerson was quoted as saying.

The baby apparently unharmed, was brought to a hospital.

FATHER HANGS GIRL BY WRISTS

Inhuman Punishment for the Theft of $2.

New York.—Everybody at 68 Thompson street knew that Antoinette, Paul Forki's eight-year-old daughter, had stolen $2 from her father. They had heard Antoinette crying all night and, knowing her father, felt certain she had expiated her offense.

The shrieks of the child redoubled in violence at about the time Forki, whose wife and son had gone out earlier, was leaving for his fruit stand on the East side about 8:30 a. m., and many mothers at 68 Thompson street shook their heads commiseratingly.

Forki slammed the door of his apartment at last and clumped down the stairs to his work. Listening women withdrew their heads and closed their doors softly as he passed, for the very fundamental of good breeding on Thompson street is the ability to mind one's own business.

By 9 o'clock, however, the dwindling shrieks and weakening moans of the childish voice which resounded in the Forki home had wrung the hearts of several women of the house to the point where they cast neighborly courtesy and good breeding to the winds and sought a policeman.

He forced the door and found little Antoinette hanging limply by her wrists from a rope which was made fast above the transom. Her eyes were inflamed and swollen from crying, her wrists were cut by the rope which had been knotted about them and her hands were puffy with congested blood. She fainted when she was cut down.

Forki is held on a charge of felonious assault.

Use Red Light Glare to Shame Spooners Off Roads

Morristown, Ohio.—Officers in the western end of Belmont county have adopted a quiet but effective method of disposing of petting parties on lonely highways near here. Upon being notified of such parties in their district, the officers hurry to the scene in automobiles.

They are armed with an apparently harmless box. Stealthily they place the box in front of the petting party car. A fuse is lighted and then the fun begins. For the next five minutes the roadway for an area of nearly 100 feet is illuminated with a glaring red light. The couple or couples in the car promptly forget everything except the starter on the machine and speed away.

$1 Bill Copied in Rug Seized as Counterfeit

New York.—The largest counterfeit dollar in the world was seized here. The dollar, a rug reproducing a silver certificate, with finely woven portraits of Lincoln and Grant, was brought in on the liner King Alexander by a Greek merchant, living in Chicago. Seizure was made by secret service agents who refused the name of the rug's owner. The agents explained it was illegal to reproduce currency in any manner.

The dollar is six feet by four. It even carries out the color scheme of United States currency. It was the first such seizure ever made at the custom house. Agents said the rug had been made in Greece.

Novel Punishment Meted Out to Chinese Thieves

Tsingtao, China.—The park police here demonstrated a new and effective mode of punishment for vandals recently when two men were caught stealing flowers. The officers took the culprits to the main boulevard and made them kneel. To the prodding of police rifles they were made to shout to all passers-by why they were being thus treated.

For 15 minutes they were compelled to shout: "I took what did not belong to me and promise never to do it again," while they were made to hold the stolen flowers aloft.

Tells of Tortures New Drug Inspires

Gruesome Night Ritual in Colombia Described.

New York.—No woman is allowed to participate in or even to witness the ceremony of caapi drinking, as practiced by the aborigines of southeastern Colombia, the penalty for violating this tribal law since time immemorial having been death, said Dr. Henry H. Rusby, dean of the Columbia University School of Pharmacy and honorary curator of the economic collections of the New York Botanical Garden, describing the manner of using the drug caapi and its effects.

Caapi is used by the aborigines of South America to cast out all fear and to impart "the valor of a warrior," said Dean Rusby of the drug which he discovered in the jungles during his recent explorations with the Mulford expedition. A quantity of caapi brought home by Doctor Rusby is in the hands of laboratory investigators, whose conclusions are being awaited with keen interest by scientists.

The region in southeastern Colombia where caapi drinking prevails is called by a name which signifies in English "The Land of No Regrets," which suggests the "Land of the Lotus Eaters" of ancient mythology.

"The use of caapi is based upon the native belief that all tribal misfortunes or impending dangers are the work of a personal devil and that these dangers can be escaped and the injuries remedied only through the exorcising of this evil spirit," said Dean Rusby.

Users Submit to Torture.

This exorcising, he said, they believe can only be effected through courageously facing danger and patiently enduring suffering. The action, too, must be entirely voluntary and it usually takes the form of an ordeal by torture. The caapi is drunk to impart the courage and fortitude necessary to sustain the chief actor in the drama.

The matter is first submitted to the all-powerful medicineman, who decides whether or not a council meeting shall be called. If his decision is favorable, the inhabitants of the surrounding villages are summoned by the great signal drum made by hollowing out an immense tree trunk, and the tones of which can be distinctly heard for several miles.

The council meeting is preceded and accompanied by dances and other elaborate ceremonies in which both men and women participate.

"For this occasion," said Dean Rusby, "the men of the tribe gather and seat themselves in two rows, the individuals facing one another, but no woman is allowed to participate or even to view the ceremony. The penalty for violating this law has always been death, although I cannot say of my own certain knowledge whether this extreme severity still persists to this day.

"The caapi may be prepared by only one individual in the tribe and only certain specified officials are permitted to offer it to the drinkers. Under its influence the men develop a very warlike spirit, recounting their various exploits in battle or when subject to other dangers.

"As their 'courage' increases, one after another will volunteer to undergo the ordeal. When a sufficient number have thus volunteered, they will retire to some remote portion of the forest, where the torture is inflicted."

This ceremony usually takes place at dead of night. The dance which accompanied the ceremony was what is known as the Dance of the Owls and Frogs.

The men, stripped for the occasion, are supplied with huge gourd-like musical instruments and produce as they dance music which, if it is monotonous as to tune, is full of rhythm, being described by the explorers as very accurate as to time, pitch and quality of notes.

The dance having continued for some time, one of the participants will hand to a companion a cruel whip made of the tough splints from a palm leaf, which inflicts an intensely painful stroke. He then turns his back while his companion lashes him.

It is required, said Dean Rusby, that he continue to play his instrument without the loss of a note or any variation in time or tone, and without flinching or manifesting any other sign of suffering, however slight. Should he fail in this particular, it is a sign that so far as he is concerned the evil spirit triumphs and the efforts to exorcise it will be of no avail.

If he successfully endures the scourging, he takes the whip from the hand of his companion, who in turn must receive blows similar to those which he has inflicted. The ceremony continues for a considerable time, until every man has been repeatedly scourged and his entire body covered with welts or bloody marks.

If all goes well, and the scourging has been properly endured, they return to the council and report a successful result.

"In Bolivia," said Doctor Rusby, "caapi is used chiefly as a mere exhilarating and stimulating beverage, somewhat like tea and coffee. Its use is very limited and the amount taken at a time is very small."

New "Science" Says Teeth Show Character

Berlin.—A new "science" is developing in Europe whose devotees claim they are able to tell a person's character from the teeth—their number, size, position, form, condition and peculiarities.

The principal rules for such a character analysis are:

The man who opens his lips slightly when he smiles so his upper teeth are visible is an open, agreeable person. The man, however, who draws his lips tightly together and seemingly seeks to hide his teeth is untrustworthy.

Whoever shows his teeth constantly and without cause is stupid.

Whoever has too many teeth is weak of will and easily led. A woman with too many teeth is talkative and a bore.

People with a fourth big molar are dangerous or criminal.

LARGE PEAT BED HAS BEEN UNCOVERED BY SEA SURF

Find Expected to Cut Cape Cod Fuel Bills.

Boston.—Cape Cod folks have solved the fuel problem for "a hard winter." If successful, the coal barons and middlemen, who have been receiving $20 the ton for the poor quality of coal, will get a jolt likely to be long remembered.

In a word, Cape Codders are to return to the peat-burning days of their forefathers, utilizing a recently discovered peat deposit, estimated to yield 50,000 tons, uncovered by the sea surf on Nauset beach in Eastham.

The peat deposit is the greatest natural wonder on Cape Cod. The peat bed is within 300 feet of the ocean, separated at low tide by the white, sandy beach and frequently lashed by breakers. The deposit has been completely covered for 250 years or more by 30 feet of white beach sand.

Gunsold, who visited these shores long before the pilgrims left a map of Cape Cod which shows that at Eastham and also at Chatham long points of land containing hundreds of acres extended miles into the Atlantic. The Eastham point was named Point Car and the other Point Gilbert. They entirely disappeared years ago. To this day, however, vessels and fishermen have fouled anchors and lines on roots of trees, pieces of which have been brought to the surface, these roots giving positive evidence that land once extended from Chatham to George's banks, 70 miles east-southeast from Chatham Light.

Capt. Abbott Walker, veteran of coast guard station No. 39, says he first observed evidence of a peat deposit near that point ten years ago. In that short interval the sea has advanced inland many feet.

The great deposit, which crops out at the foot of the bluff, extends some distance underground, and probably runs back under the coast guard station 500 feet. Inland, beyond the station, is a large swamp, which is about on a level with the peat bed and may form a part of it.

A portion 50 feet wide facing the sea and 40 feet in depth to the bluff behind it has been uncovered by the surf.

In appearance the peat is a rich dark brown of a purely vegetable matter such as decayed leaves and sticks. It crumbles easily, burns freely when dry, but holds fire well and gives off a great heat. The smoke has the pleasant odor of burning cedar.

Germany's Angora Envoy Has House Sent to Him

Berlin.—Angora may be turned into a modern bungalow colony if other governments follow the example of Germany.

A portable bungalow of 12 rooms is at present under construction in Germany and will be shipped to Turkey and erected at the new nationalist capital for the use of the German embassy, which is today temporarily housed in the German embassy building at Constantinople.

Many delegations which visit Angora live temporarily in cars. The hotel accommodations are so limited and primitive that tourists find it almost impossible to remain any length of time in the Turkish capital.

Angora is 200 miles from Constantinople, and the railroad service is slow and unsatisfactory. To have a representative on the spot will be of advantage to Germany, it is argued, and other countries may be compelled to do as Berlin has done.

SPANISH VOGUE IN SHAWLS; WEARABLE TYPES IN COATS

FASHION, this season, is conspicuously a matter of following the Spanish vogue. At every style exhibit, at social gatherings galore, where modish women add to the picture, in cable reports from across seas, in messages brought by word of mouth by those incoming voyagers who have not left a stone unturned in Paris, London, Vienna and other style centers in their search for "the latest," the present-day modes are discussed and exploited in terms of picturesque Spain.

One of the outstanding notes in this overwhelming favor for modes Spanish is the vogue for the deep-fringed, graceful, gay-hued shawl. Creators of style who express their genius through knitted stitch, having "caught the vision," are scoring new triumphs in that they are introducing the shawl.

SHAWL OF KNITTED TAN FIBER SILK

These wizards of the knitted art are ensnaring the feminine heart with beauteous long-fringed shawl creations which reflect most fascinatingly true Spanish colorings of crimson, black, orange, green and purple. Sometimes the color glory is varied, as in the case of this lovely shawl shown in the picture, which is knitted of tan fiber silk with striking pattern in orange. A flattering accessory to any costume is this lovely exponent of knitted artistry.

A black silk knitted shawl designed in triangular form, with an effective green and blue peacock pattern interknitted in the corner section, is an outcome of the Spanish shawl vogue.

Among the large knitted squares simulating the crepe Spanish shawls, green and beige are successfully introduced in a particularly handsome model, which carries a wide border knitted in fancy stitch, repeating the two colors in the deep fringe.

Mary had a little lamb, but he can no longer keep up with her. Instead, he contributes his fleece toward making her a coat all trimmed with braid and fur, and everywhere that Mary goes the coat's along with her. This is an arrangement highly satisfactory to Marys in general, who are just now looking for coats that will do for all-round wear, give good service and be equal to holding their own with different kinds of hats. For Mary has learned to leave it to the hat, more than anything else, when it comes to adapting costume to occasion.

Here is one of those accommodating new coats, of a soft and becoming pile fabric, with rich, but sturdy trimmings that will fit in with almost any background. Its plaid lining proclaims comfort and serviceability. Its luxurious collar and cuffs are of Hudson seal and there is a little glint of gold in the silk braid that makes a finishing touch. Probably its owner has a simple plaid frock to match the coat lining and a plain felt hat to complete, with the coat, an ensemble for everyday street wear. But her ostrich-trimmed millinery indicates that a pretty crepe de chine or satin afternoon dress is on its way—somewhere.

AN ACCOMMODATING NEW COAT

There are many beautiful and wearable types among the coats that stylists have prepared for this fall. Among the handsomest are coats of chocolate brown velours, with long waist, surplice fastening at the front, which brings two very large, decorated glass buttons a little to the left side. Dyed squirrel makes the ample and long shawl collar and wide cuffs.

In climates where there is no very cold weather the new coats of heavy ottoman silk will be found practical and very chic.

WOMEN IN DEMAND AS POST OFFICERS

Women just will take command. When a woman appears radiantly on the scene, all the mere males become as meek as lambs and hang around patiently to be told when to fetch and carry. There may be hard-boiled eggs, fellows who boast themselves he-men, who rebel against the fact, who wouldn't let any woman boss them—no, no, not they!

Even they are not half so independent of milady as they fondly imagine themselves to be. Sooner or later they succumb, pleasurably, along with those of their brethren who are just waiting for a glance of that bewitching eye to fall for anything that may be commanded of them. Anyhow, woman soon runs the ship of state, vote or no vote.

And so in the Legion. Women may not be numerous in the enrollment. But they wield power. And posts are recognizing that fact by electing them to offices. The women have paved the way for that by their willingness, their faithfulness and their devotion.

Miss Leona S. Mellish, formerly a second "looey" in the Army Nurse corps, is graves registration officer for Somerville post, Somerville, Mass. That Miss Mellish may not feel lonely, Miss M. Etta Wallace, likewise an army nurse, has been made post historian.

Miss Mellish entered army service on October 10, 1917. She served in base hospitals at Camp Devens, Mass., at Fox Hills, Staten Island and at Mesves, France. She also served in Evacuation hospitals 12 and 19 at Trier, Germany. She was overseas ten months and was disabled. She was discharged April 15, 1921.

Miss Wallace enlisted on April 11, 1918. She was attached to Base Hospital Unit 44 and was on temporary duty at Camp Merritt, N. J., for three months. She served in France with Base Hospital Units 44, 48 and 68 and also with Evacuation Hospital Unit 24. She was discharged on May 21, 1919.

Presents Relic of War to Alliance (Ohio) Post

As a relic of the stirring war days, R. A. Lamont, of Alliance, Ohio, recently presented the American Legion of Alliance with a big gas shell. And thereby hangs a tale.

During the early stages of America's part in the World war, shell manufacturers experienced some difficulty in filling gas shells with a liquid that would produce the required results without corroding inside the shell and losing part of its "authority." Lamont perfected a formula for a varnish to coat the inside of the shell that protected the steel lining and kept the gas compound at its maximum strength for Heinie's benefit. This formula was presented to government experts, pronounced practical and was used thereafter in American gas shells. The gas shell presented to the Alliance Legionnaires is Lamon't test shell that the government accepted as "booko potent." It will be used as a flag holder in the new Legion quarters, recently dedicated.

Lamont won recognition during the war, too, for a special treatment used on rifle triggers and metal parts of the gun stocks to prevent the intense cold from causing the soldiers' fingers to "stick" to the guns.

Utah Department Wants Government Insurance

The American Legion, department of Utah, in convention at Spanish Fork recently, adopted resolutions to the effect that government insurance be reinstated and be carried on according to approved commercial methods; that investigation be made into the relation between the head of the insurance department and the U. S. Veterans' bureau; that government insurance representatives in each state be appointed and that, if present laws prohibit reinstatement and conversion of government insurance, laws should be changed to permit the veteran, by payment of one month's back premium and one month's advance premium, to reinstate that portion of his insurance for which he is not drawing disability compensation.

TRIBUTE TO LEGION

"Youth which believes. . . ." are words of a tribute to the American Legion included in the American Bar association's last annual report, which states: "How, then, shall we proceed to leaven the vast lump of indifference, ignorance and hostility prevalent in this country and threatening the growth of what the American Legion has grouped under the term 'Americanism'?" The association answers its own question as follows: "Our plan has been to work with and coordinate the efforts of every society in America competent and willing to do the work, and in this way we have been amazed and delighted to find the magnificent work that these organizations are accomplishing along patriotic lines, how readily and intelligently they respond to every appeal. Foremost of these in numbers, youth and zeal, of course, is the American Legion. If sometimes the Legion in its enthusiasm does radical things, it must be remembered that youth which believes is always radical. Youth which believes is never lukewarm and seldom moderate. But of all the assets that America has for good citizenship and the awakening of the political conscience, undoubtedly this great body stands among the first."

SQUAWMAN BURIED BY LEGIONNAIRES

Sam Terry was a squawman, and when he died recently at St. Francis, S. D., American Legionnaires buried him with full military honors.

But Samuel Mark Terry, nephew of General Terry of Civil war and Indian war fame, was not the typical gambling, wife-beating derelict who becomes a squawman of necessity or slothfulness, hated by both the Indian and the white man. When Terry's body was lowered into the grave at the Rosebud Indian Reservation cemetery, the intoned moan of sorrow that went up from the red men surrounding the grave betokened a different type of squawman, for these sorrowing Indians were mourning the passing of a man who had spent many years of his life in the United States army as a scout and fighter of their people.

Terry was born in New York September 1, 1830. He joined the United States army in 1858 and a gunshot wound received in the Civil war caused him to wear a silver quarter in his throat the remainder of his life.

Handicapped by his wounds, Terry went into the west country and continued in government service as a scout and Indian fighter. For many years he evaded the whizzing arrows of the Sioux, only to succumb to a more deadly arrow flung from the bow of romance.

His detachment was about to attack an Indian village in 1867 with orders to kill every man. During the fighting a figure was seen moving in the tall grass. The long musket of a scout raised slowly to rid the world of another "red varmit" when Sam Terry suddenly grasped the barrel and ordered them to wait while he investigated the moving figure in the grass. Search revealed a beautiful Indian maiden. After the attack she followed Terry's every step as a faithful dog follows a master, and Sam Terry was her master, the gods had willed it so. Terry became a squawman and a real lover of the Indians.

Sam Terry, old timers say, was a noble character. After serving his country faithfully for twenty-three years, much of the time in the capacity of a professional enemy of the Indian, he found it in his heart to accept them as brothers, to serve them with understanding and tolerance. It was largely through the influence and efforts of Sam Terry that mutual understanding between the Indians and the Great White Father at Washington was brought about.

Sure Are Conspicuous if Not Legion Members

"If you don't belong to the Legion in Ft. Pierce, you're conspicuous as h—," is the rather startling but none the less truthful slogan that Ft. Pierce (Fla.) American Legionnaires have adopted, and for good reasons. There are just 258 white ex-service persons of the World war in Ft Pierce and vicinity. Ft. Pierce post has enrolled every single one of the 258 available. Forty-four members were enrolled in a recent membership contest. The record of Ft. Pierce post as regards membership has not been equaled by any veteran unit in the country. The Florida department has made a remarkable membership record this year as was indicated recently when they won the Hanford MacNider trophy for greatest increase of membership over the 1923 enrollment. Florida department is unique, too, in that there is not a post in bad standing in the entire department.

Stormy Seas

The morning felicitations were well under way.

"I wish you'd take your spoon out of your coffee cup," she said.

"Why should you care?" the surly brute demanded.

"I merely wanted you to have plenty of room when you dip in your toast, dear!" she suggested sweetly.—American Legion Weekly.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"A Blessing to Suffering Women," Writes One

Louisville, Illinois.—"I certainly thank you for the great benefit I have received from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I first learned about it from my step-mother who got so much help from it. Several years ago I took it for inward weakness and since then I have taken it during the Change of Life and it has been a great help to me. It certainly is a blessing to suffering women and I take pleasure in recommending it. My health has been better this summer than it has been for five years. I am now able to do all my work and have canned 340 quarts of fruit and vegetables this summer."—Mrs. KATE MCPEAK, Louisville, Illinois.

Wants Letter Used As Proof

Frankford, Pennsylvania.—"I am sure if women who suffer through the Change of Life as I have, with hot flashes, nervousness and other weaknesses, would give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial they would be benefited as I was. My nerves were so bad that every little noise made me jump, but now I am not bothered that way at all. My husband says he really hated to look at me I looked so miserable. I hope you will use this letter as proof of the help the Vegetable Compound is giving me."—Mrs. ABBIE HARVEY, 5701 Leonard St., Frankford, Pa.

Forced To Remain in Bed

Carlisle, Illinois.—"During the Change of Life I suffered with severe nervousness and with disturbances of the entire system. These continued probably two years before I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I could do none of my work and was not always able to be up. For ten days at a time I was forced to remain in bed with my hips propped higher than my head and the pains were terrible. The doctor helped some but each time I was forced to go over the same suffering. I had taken the Vegetable Compound in 1910 after my twins were born and it had helped me so I decided to try it again. I became better and gained in strength. I have taken it for about three years now but not steadily. I am able to do my housework but I avoid all heavy lifting and washing and ironing as I know I am not strong enough yet. I give the Vegetable Compound to my daughters and recommend it to my friends."—Mrs. LOUISA B. BRAND, 450 Fairfax Street, Carlyle, Illinois.

In a recent country-wide canvass of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, over 100,000 replies were received and 98 out of every 100 reported they had been benefited by its use. For sale by druggists everywhere.

Mrs. Mary Smith Harvey has resigned her position at the American Lime and Stone Company and departed on Saturday for Washington's Crossing, where she will make her home with her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ives Harvey.

Arthur H. Sloop and W. Harrison Walker were elected recently as delegates to the State Kiwanis convention at Greensburg. The former departed on Monday afternoon to be on hand for the opening session, while the latter did not go until Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Chamberlin, of Milton, and Mr. and Mrs. W. L Chamberlin, of Scranton, motored to Bellefonte last Saturday and were guests for the day at the home of Mrs. Caroline C. Furst. A family dinner was enjoyed at the Nittany Country Club in the evening.

Swengel Smith, Wynn Gramley, Robert Hood and John Woods motored to Washington over the week-end and saw two World's Series games between New York and Washington. "Swenk" came back all hipped-up over big league ball, and if indications are correct, Bellefonte fans will be treated to something spectacular in the way of catching when base-ball time comes around again.

Bellefonte High School won its opening game of the football season last Saturday on the local field, defeating Lock Haven Normal, 20 to 0. The two elevens were pretty evenly matched, Bellefonte excelling, however, in forward passing. Ceptain "Dutch" Waite, of the Bellefonte team, who has been worrying along with a sprained ankle for some time past, started the game but soon had to retire. He made a second entry shortly before the close of the game, but was knocked out in the first scrimmage that followed. Next Saturday Bellefonte High School will play Millheim on the local field, at 10.30 A. M. State College defeated North Carolina, at State College, on Saturday, 51 to 6. Reports emanating from Penn State earlier in the week that the visitors were unexpectedly strong, and would provide a close game, helped swell the attendance. The game was as one-sided as the score indicates.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Shallcross were visitors to Wilmington, Del., over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. William R. Phillips left Bellefonte the latter part of last week for their new home at Rockland, Me.

Mr. and Mrs. Murry Andrews have returned from Philadelphia and re-opened their home on North Allegheny St.

Mrs. Eben Bower spent part of last week as a guest of her sister, Mrs. E. M. Burd, at the latter's home in Millheim.

The condition of Mrs. John Garthoff, who has been seriously ill for the past few weeks, is reported to be much improved.

Mrs. Louis Grauer is spending the week in Philadelphia and New York where she will buy the fall and winter stock for Lyon & Co.

A number of Bellefonte folks will go to Philipsburg Friday evening to attend a dance being given by Samuel Wigton at the Hotel Philips.

Miss Edna Wion is a surgical patient at the Centre County Hospital, having been operated on last week for appendicitis. She is convalescing rapidly.

The ladies of the P. O. of A. will hold a chicken and waffle supper in the P. O. S. of A. hall on Thursday evening, Oct. 16. Admission, children, 35c.; adults, 75c.

Dr. J. L. Seibert departed on Monday to attend the 4 day session of the State Medical Society at Reading, which opened on Tuesday morning. Drs. Dale, Kidder and Ritenour, all of State College, motored to the convention on Tuesday.

A whirlwind brand of football may be expected at the game on Friday afternoon on Hughes Field at 3 o'clock when the Academy plays the strong Susquehanna University Reserve team. The former's defeat of Syracuse Freshmen last week, 28 to 0, virtually put them in a class of their own among prep school teams.

Mrs. William E. Hurley, who had been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Fred Rees, at Erie, for the past several months, returned home on Sunday. She was accompanied by her husband, who remained for the weekend when he returned to his work with a State highway contractor in the western part of the state.

Thomas Miller was the victim of an unfortunate accident on Tuesday, while working on the gas producer at Plant 19 of the American Lime & Stone Co. In some manner a large bar fell across his hand, mangling it considerably. He was removed to the hospital where X-Ray pictures will be taken as soon as the lacerations have healed somewhat.

The High School faculty play, "Come Out of the Kitchen," will be repeated Tuesday evening, Oct. 21, at the Moose Temple Theatre. Admission, adults 75c, children, 50c. Tickets will be on sale at Mott's drug store on Monday at noon. All of the teachers attending Institute, as well as friends of the High School, are requested to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Weaver will leave Bellefonte this week in their new Studebaker Big Six coupe for Lancaster for a short visit with Mr. Weaver's relatives, after which they will proceed to Florida, where they will probably locate permanently. Mrs. Spangler, who is with them now, has not decided as yet whether she will accompany the Weavers south.

A large "Red-Ball" moving van came to Bellefonte on Monday and removed the household goods of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Daggett to Wyncote where the Daggetts will make their future home. The family will depart sometime this week. Mr. Daggett has secured the exclusive rights in the Philadelphia territory for a patent "fuel saver," which is designed to prevent waste of coal in furnaces, and which was recently introduced into this section by Robert Morris.

"Heart Day" receipts when checked up by Mrs. Hilda Leathers, who took charge of the Volunteers of America tag day held here last Saturday, totaled the sum of $113.32. At the close of the contest it was found that Helen Auman was entitled to first prize, having collected $12.45. The second was won by Efrida Kauffman, who had $7.11. The winner of the third was Carolyn Young, with $6.20. The fourth prize was won by Beaulah Shawley, with $5.53.

Misses Louise and Ann Hoffer of Philipsburg, were visitors in Bellefonte on Wednesday.

Miss Adaline Olewine departed on Monday for a two week's visit with friends in Cleveland, O.

The ladies of the U. B. church will hold a chicken and waffle supper, from 5 to 6 o'clock, Oct. 23, in the basement of the church. Price, 65c, including dessert.

Morton Bidwell, for many years a familiar figure on the streets of Bellefonte, departed on Monday for Buffalo, N. Y., where he will make his home in the future with his sister, Mrs. John C. Matthews.

An unusual type of prisoner was detained in the County Jail last week in the person of Jack Shupp, a deserter from the U. S. Army. He was identified by the Commandant at State College, and sent back to the Army for trial on Saturday.

Mrs. Jerome Harper and Miss Hortense Seixas, the latter of Philadelphia, returned to Bellefonte on Tuesday after a month's visit with Mrs. Harper's husband who is living with his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Saxe, of near Pittsburgh. Mrs. Saxe and little son accompanied Mrs. Harper home for a short visit.

Six prisoners were returned to Pittsburgh on Wednesday, four of them being classed as unruly, one for refusing to work and another for attempting to escape. A departure from the usual method of taking prisoners to Pittsburgh was observed this time when two of the State police accompanied them in addition to one of the regular guards. This method permits two of the regular guards to remain on the job with the work gangs at Rockview.

JUSTICE BELL ARRIVES

"Get-Out-Vote" Caravan Arrived in Bellefonte.

The "Get-Out-the-Vote caravan arrived in Bellefonte shortly after 5 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, about 20 cars accompanying the large truck on which the "justice bell" was mounted. This bell is a replica of the Liberty Bell and is intended to arouse popular enthusiasm so that people will go to the polls and vote on election day.

The meeting at Bellefonte started promptly at 8 P. M., a short concert being given by the I. O. O. F. band and attracting considerable of a crowd. Short talks were given by members of the Caravan, namely: Albert Smith Faught, Miss Mary Smith, Lucy Lewis Vice Chairman of the Philadelphia Women's Clubs, and Mary Stitzer. W. Harrison Walker welcomed the Caravan and John Payne gave a short talk. The Caravan left Bellefonte about 8:30 on Thursday morning, proceeding to Snow Shoe, Windber, Philipsburg and Clearfield.

DAVIS OUT ON BAIL

Rockview Man Released Following Hearing at Lewistown.

Following a habeas corpus hearing last Thursday at Lewistown before Judge Thomas F. Bailey, Elmer E. Davis, charged with the shooting of John Mullen during a drunken brawl on the Friday previous was libersted on $5,000 local bail.

Davis was represented by Attorney F. W. Culbertson while John J. Patterson argued for District attorney John T. Wilson against the releasing of the defendant. The district attorney told the Court that he did not care to go on record as to the degree.

Quigley Winner at Golf.

Senator "Dick" Quigley, of Lock Haven, won the match play for the individual championship in the Central Counties Golf association tournament completed on the course of the Clinton Country club last Saturday. In the open 36 hole medal play held on Sunday, Quigley came within two strokes of tieing for the honors. Only an unfortunate penalty of two strokes when his ball hit that of another player in the same foursome pitched out of a sand trap on the 31st hole, kept him out of a tie. J. Wynn Fredericks, of Lock Haven, who landed in the finals against Quigley in the medal play, was tied with Ralph Beach, the Blairmont pro. in the open medal play, each having an open 158. In the semi-finals of the individual championship, Quigley defeated Broome 1 up and Fredericks set down Canan 2 and 1. Quigley then overcame Fredericks 3 and 2.

Potato Field Day Oct. 23.

The first annual Potato Field Day at the Penna. State College school of agriculture will be held on Thursday, Oct. 23. Through the county agents and extension men potato growers all over the state are invited to attend this function which is expected to become an annual event at the college. "We want all Pennsylvania farmers to come," says Dean Watts. "We know that potato growers will be interested especially, but we want those who do not grow potatoes extensively to come also, for we feel they will learn a great deal about growing potatoes. There will be demonstrations in digging, grading and spraying results, few speeches and a program that will make the event worth while."

lose some votes from their respective parties and gain by defections from each other. Some Republicans will not vote for Mr. Holmes because they say he is "too dry," and on the other hand many Democrats will support him for that very reason. Unless such defections applying to both candidates are much greater than now appears to be the case, and on a comparative basis of party registration in the county, which shows a large Republican margin, the election of Mr. Holmes would appear to be reasonably certain.
